

ONE MORE MONTH OF WINTER GAIETY

Social Life of Richmond During Past Two Months Unusually Bright.

WHERE GOVERNOR WORSHIPS

Mr. Swanson Will Attend Trinity.
Mrs. Swanson to Have Pew at St. Paul's.

A Lover.

First, her eyes! I can't express
All the wonder of her eyes;
Truth and trust and tenderness
Dwell there ever, vernal-wise.

Next, her smile! I cannot tell
All the marvel of her smile;
'Tis a golden miracle,
To enrapture and beguile.

Then, her voice! I cannot say
What most charms me in her voice;
Majesty to trance the day,
Notes to bid the night rejoice.

Last, her heart! And when I think
That it quickens but for me,
I am mute upon the brink
Of amazement and ecstasy.

—Clinton Scollard.

The February Outlook.

Midwinter has passed, and into the remaining weeks of February must be crowded the closing gaieties of the season, for Lent falls on the 28th of the month.

Its coming is already being anticipated, and there have been from Richmond a number of departures for the South. Mrs. Hunter McGuire, with Mrs. Edward McGuire and the little son of the latter, have been at Camden, S. C., for some weeks.

Miss Margaret McGuire has been virtually spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. Clay, in Savannah, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. T. Monroe Perkins leave this week for Tampa, Fla. Mrs. Turner Arlington is in Jacksonville, and Mrs. John L. Eubank, who left Richmond for Rock Hill, S. C., last week, expected to go on after a few days to Florida, for the rest of the season.

The great social events of last week hinged on the inaugural ceremonies attendant upon the entrance into office of Governor Swanson, and the beginning of life for him and Mrs. Swanson in the Mansion. The Richmond German gave a very pretty dance at the Masonic Temple last Monday night, with a number of visitors from out of town present. The supper following the dance was very fine, indeed.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Addison Holladay gave a beautiful tea at her home, No. 315 West Franklin, and Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wharton Watkins were at home in honor of their daughter, Miss Katherine Watkins, who is to give a series of card parties throughout February.

Mrs. W. D. Thomas, of No. 115 East Grace Street, who has as her charming guest Miss Nan Jeffries, of Warrenton, Va., gave a tea to Miss Jeffries on Wednesday last, when Mrs. Richard E. Byrd and Miss Virginia Cabell Baker, of Winchester, were also her guests.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Governor and Mrs. Swanson.

Governor and Mrs. Swanson will spend their first Sunday in Richmond very quietly at the Executive Mansion, where everything is adjusting itself easily and pleasantly to a daily routine of duty, work, and home life.

Mrs. Swanson will attend services today at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, where her family have worshipped for several generations, and where she will share a pew with her sister, Mrs. Cunningham Hall.

Governor Swanson is a devoted member of the Methodist Church and will begin his Richmond church association at Trinity Church, where his intimate friend, the Rev. Dr. J. Sidney Peters, is pastor.

The continuance of bright inaugural weather combines to render the beginning of Governor Swanson's term of office particularly happy.

Progressive Luncheon.

One of the prettiest affairs of Thursday last, February first, was a progressive luncheon given by Mrs. Thomas Cary Johnson, of Union Theological Seminary, to Miss McCabe, who is the house guest of Mrs. Charles Ferrall, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd and Miss Baker, of Winchester, Va. Guests were seated in groups of four, at eight tables, and progressed by means of flowers, each table having two yellow tulips and two jonquills, the tulips being the badge of progression. Dainty place cards, souvenir cards showing the various motifs and ragged robins painted in water colors and inscribed with appropriate sentiments in verse.

Crystal Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, of No. 401-1-2 East Main Street, who will celebrate their crystal wedding, Monday evening, February 13th, from 8 to 11 o'clock, were married in Norfolk, Va., fifteen years ago, by Mrs. Marshall's cousin, the Rev. George D. Armstrong.

Mrs. Marshall is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Robert Reid, of Norfolk, granddaughter of the late Charles Reid, one of Norfolk's most prominent citizens for many years, and a niece of Mr. Andrew Reid, of Baltimore. Mr. Marshall is the only son of the late William Marshall, British vice-consul. His mother was granddaughter of the Rev. Richard Channing Moore, Bishop of Virginia.

House decorations for the wedding reception will be in green and white. The entire lower floor will be canvased in white. Mantels will be banked with ferns and bride roses and chandeliers and doorknobs will be wreathed in Southern smilax. Thillow's orchestra will play during reception hours. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will be Mrs. Marshall's sister, Miss Marie D. Reed, of Norfolk; Mrs. Marshall's sister, Mrs. Paul C. McPhail, of Charlotte county, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Miles Cary, of Richmond.

The occasion will be one of great social interest, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall having many friends in Richmond and elsewhere throughout Virginia.

Ante-Nuptial Luncheon.
Mrs. J. Taylor Elyson will be the hostess of a beautiful ante-nuptial luncheon, to be given shortly to Miss Lillian Atkins, her maid of honor and bridesmaids.

Those present will be Miss Atkins, Miss Louise Atkins, Miss Elizabeth Hotchkiss, Miss Helen Lathrop, Miss Edith Grant, Miss Julia Tyler, Miss Jennie Bland and Mrs. Wadley.

Miss Atkins's marriage to Mr. Henry Starke Hotchkiss will be celebrated at the Second Presbyterian Church, this city, Thursday, February 15th, at 6 P. M. Mr. Hotchkiss is Mrs. Elyson's nephew.

Benefit of Alumnae.
The "Gypsies Revelry," the entertainment which was given so successfully by the Young People's Society of Park Place Church in December, will be repeated February 15th in Belvidere Hall for the benefit of the Alumnae Association of the Woman's College.

The entertainment promises to be a success in every way, under the skilful management of Mrs. Howard Sutton as chairman and Mr. I. D. Briggs as director. The several solo parts, the bright choruses and the gay costumes render the whole affair both interesting and brilliant. The tambourine and fan drills will be unique features of the evening.

Alumnae Meeting.
The regular midwinter meeting of the Woman's College Alumnae Association will be held February 8th at 4 o'clock P. M. in the college chapel. Professor F. C. Woodward will deliver a short address to the association at the close of the business meeting, and a social half-hour will follow. It is earnestly hoped that every one of the alumnae will attend.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

Musical at Club.
What promises to be a most delightful musical will be given at the Woman's Club Wednesday evening, February 7th, at 8:30 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. E. A. Hoen.

Those present will have the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Addie Kline Schmidt Payne, of Washington, D. C., vocalist, who makes her first appearance before a Richmond audience at that time. Mrs. Payne recently sang before the Friday Morning Musical Club, of Washington, and created great enthusiasm by her lovely contralto voice and by her rendition of the works of modern French composers. She will give here an aria from Jeanne d'Arc, by Tschakovsky, and other equally attractive selections. Miss Annie Louise Reinhardt, leading violinist, will take part in the programme. Miss Myrtle Redford, the accompanist of the evening, will add to the pleasure of the audience by giving several piano numbers.

Members of the club have the privilege of inviting gentlemen as escorts.
Mrs. Leland Rankin will discuss the "Books of the Year" at the Woman's Club on Monday afternoon at half-past 4.

The regular meeting of the board of the Sheltering Arms Hospital will take place Monday at noon. A large attendance is desired, as arrangements will be made for Founders' Day.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES.

Confederate Dead.
Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, as chairman of a committee from Richmond Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, announces that:

"A monument will be erected in Madison, Wisconsin, this spring by the United Daughters of the Confederacy to 'The Memory of Mrs. Alice Waterman and Her Boys.'"

In the cemetery at Madison are buried one hundred and thirty-nine Confederate prisoners of war. In 1898 the Confederate Veterans' Association of Washington, D. C., sent out appeals for contributions to Mrs. Waterman, but received no encouragement.

Lee Camp, the Sons of Veterans, and the Virginia Daughters of the Confederacy have been trying since 1897 to erect the Confederate prison dead. They raised a small fund to mark the graves at Ball's Point, Lookout and in Arlington, but were denied the privilege by the authorities at Washington. They have, therefore, decided to use a portion of the fund to place the monument at Madison, which is not a national cemetery.

MRS. MARY L. DODGE, A WELL KNOWN VIRGINIA ARTIST

In Mr. Aulick's sketches of noted living artists recently published in The Times-Dispatch, it was matter of surprise to many readers that the name of Mrs. Mary Lettich Dodge was not included. Mrs. Dodge is a born artist. In childhood she was instructed by her mother, from whom she inherited her splendid talent, and as it grew with her growth, it awakened an earnest desire to visit the cities of the old world, and breathe the atmosphere of those inspired ones whose works she had so eagerly read. She studied and painted for several years in Virginia and New York, until her marriage in 1895, after which her brush was for a while, in large part, laid aside, for her three little ones in time claimed her attention, and she was ever a devoted mother.

The old craving, however, would come back, and her husband promised that she should some day have her wish. When her older boy, the artist, William D. Dodge, was just entering his teens, she sailed for Germany with her three children. Her studies were begun in Munich, but later and for many years she studied in Paris under Jerome, then the greatest living artist, who always encouraged her to develop the talent that seemed strong as life within her. In a few years her eldest son entered the charmed circle, and her attention was largely directed to his advancement. Her other son, Robert, followed in the same line, and in time the daughter began to handle the brush with taste. Her ambition for her artist sons naturally overshadowed all aspirations to render her own name famous, but her paintings were exhibited in the salon years ago. The work of her sons has been extensively exhibited in America, in St. Louis, Chicago, and the Congressional Library in Washington, in New York and other places, but, unlike them, mural painting is not her work. It is in portrait painting that she excels. Her studio in Rome is often visited by prominent American tourists as well as of foreigners and others of high rank. Recently she has painted portraits of Bishop and Mrs. Burt, Professor and Mrs. Royce, of Wake Forest College, and a full length portrait of Mrs. Hamford, wife of the English politician of that name.

Mrs. Dodge's husband died several years ago in New York, since which time she has made her permanent home in Italy. She has purchased a beautiful villa on the Mediterranean, in easy reach of the city of Rome, where, with her daughter and faithful maid, she retires "for rest when wearied with painting and society." Her love for her native Virginia has not been abated by her residence abroad. She still loves the old State, and most of all her native county, Bedford.

There her older son, William, was born, not in Liberty, as stated by another, but in the ancestral home of his mother, in broad view of the Peaks of Otter. It is well remembered by his people that his father took him, when but a few days old, high up into the attic, laughingly saying, according to the old superstition, that in order to insure a bright future, "he must go up before going down."

Mrs. Dodge was at one time a familiar figure in Richmond, where she studied and taught painting in her early girlhood. Her ancestors were of the old Leftwich and Otey families of the State, some of whom were distinguished officers in Colonial and Revolutionary times. Her father, Rev. James Lettich, an eminent Baptist minister of his day, and a large land owner, died in comparatively early life. Among her relatives were the Rev. James Otey, Bishop of Tennessee, the late Hon. William Lettich Goggin, the honored and beloved John Goode, and other well known Virginians.

Mrs. Dodge's studio abounds in paintings and sketches from nature, made in her extensive travels throughout Europe, where she often gathers around her a brilliant coterie of American friends.
